

Thinking of going green?

Having a solar electric array or a wind turbine are two of the best ways of reducing CO₂. Solar energy systems need very little maintenance and will last a lifetime. As well as eventually paying for itself, should you decide to move, the energy rating of your home will be higher and the value of the green generator can still be added to the value of your home.

Based in Totnes, Beco are able to provide a friendly and reliable local service - backed up with many years of experience nationally.

Why not give us a call or drop in and let us show you what can be achieved at your house.

Together we do this

Eco-homes

Many local people have been thinking about how to save energy or generate their own – and made big and small changes to their homes to achieve it.

Whether it's Transition Streets participants taking their first steps or homes aiming for zero carbon, they all invite you over this weekend to visit, ask questions, collect information, and be inspired!
